CONSPIRED, ADMITS RICKARD, BUT "GOT BUNKED" IN BIG FILM PLOT

"Fell For Stories" of Supposed Influence at Washington and Split Proceeds With Muma, Martin and Orr.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, March 20.—Tex Rickard, famous fight promoter, gambler and miner, who has chanced millions of dollars in sporting and mining ventures, told the senate committee investigating Harry M. Daugherty today that he had been "bunked" in the conspiracy to show the Dempsey-Carpenter fight films. For once in his life, Rickard admitted ruefully, he "fell for stories" of supposed influence in Washington, and split the proceeds of the fight films with a trio of men who assured him they could get a law passed in Washington that would permit nationwide exhibition of the films. "But I think I got bunked," said Rickard.

Rickard said he entered into an agreement with "Jap" Muma, a friend of Attorney General Daugherty; Ike Martin, a Cincinnati promoter, and William A. Orr of New York, to divide the proceeds from showing the films.

Miss Leigh Was The Customer

At Wednesday Night's Retail School—Wealth of Information for Buyers and Sellers—Prize Speaker Tonight.

A few of the things which the average customer wants and is entitled to were illustrated very forcefully Wednesday evening at the high school when Miss Leigh spoke on "I Represent Your Average Customer." Her talk was one of a series being given at the retail merchants' institute held this week at the high school and to which the public is invited. Miss Leigh's talk was one which would have been of great interest to every customer as well as every salesperson in Kingston.

A wealth of information was given both for the person in front of the counter as well as for the salesman behind the counter. These evening talks are open to the public and this evening's talk by Pyrrus Irwin on "The Measure of the Merchant" is considered one of the best talks of the entire course. Miss Leigh at the close of her talk stated that Mr. Irwin was one of the most interesting speakers which she knew and that a real treat was in store for this evening.

SLIGHT FIRES AT SAUGERTIES WEDNESDAY.

A still alarm was sent in Wednesday at Saugerties owing to a chimney fire in progress in the apartment of Howard Ricketson in what is known as the "Old School House" on Livingston street, Saugerties. The blaze was quickly subdued by the use of chemicals, no damage being done.

FIRST ADDRESS OF MISS LEIGH

Retail Institute Instructor Gives Clubwomen Valuable Advice on How to Shop.

THERE ARE BARGAINS; SHOPPING LIST VITAL

Chief Wood and Mrs. Wood Praised For Services to Morality Here.

There was a large attendance of the members of the Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Ulster County Home Bureau at the open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs held at the chapel of the First Dutch Church on Wednesday afternoon. The Monday Club was the hostess for the afternoon and through the courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce was able to present Miss Ruth Leigh, who is in town in connection with the retail institute being carried on here this week.

Dr. Day, president of the federation, explained that the Monday Club had been glad to change the date of the open meeting to Wednesday afternoon in order to avail themselves of the speaker brought by the Chamber of Commerce, and asked Mr. Coe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, to introduce Miss Leigh, which he did in a few well chosen words, at the same time expressing the desire of the Chamber of Commerce to cooperate with the Federation of Women's Clubs whenever possible or desirable. Mr. Coe said he had not had the privilege of hearing Miss Leigh speak, but from what he had heard of her he felt sure that the women would be well repaid for the effort they had made to hear Miss Leigh's talk on "A Picture of Yourself—As Seen Behind the Counter."

Miss Leigh said it was a rare treat to her to address a group of women who were customers, for the most of her time was devoted to addressing salespeople. While it was less frequent for her to address women who buy she had many messages from both merchants and salespeople to give to them. Nor did she for one moment discount the fact that there was always much to be said in a cheerful or suggestive way to the salespeople.

The first request that she had from a prominent merchant was that she try to convince women buyers of the grave error of acquiring and keeping up the "looking and longing habit" whereby they take up the time of salespeople and make themselves unhappy by wishing for things that they see in shops but which cost more than they can possibly pay. To get the best possible for the money that one can spend and then to be satisfied with that act was a much better plan.

From both merchant and salespeople came the request that Miss Leigh urge women customers to make out a shopping list and then take it with them when shopping. Miss Leigh showed how much time of the woman herself, other customers and the salesperson was consumed by the woman who tries to shop without a list, and "wonders" what she wants at such and such a counter, while other buyers wait for the services of the saleswoman whom she keeps waiting while she tries to recall the list left at home.

An excellent constructive suggestion was made to Miss Leigh by a considerate and wise customer, and that was to have two lists for shopping; one a list of things one must have, the other a list of things one would like to have. Many of the latter articles will be found as bargains while one is going about buying the things one must have.

Again Miss Leigh begged of women everywhere to go up to the counter with as definite a request as possible. To go to a trimming counter and ask for bright colored handkerchiefs to trim a gingham dress for a little girl, the same to be about an inch wide and to cost not more than fifty cents, would save an immense amount of time and good nature for both the buyer and seller, whereas to go to the same counter and ask for "trimming" would result in much waste of time and exasperation. Or if one does not know just what one wants, then give as definite a request as possible, but tell the saleswoman or man that one does not know exactly what they want, not knowing the styles or materials used. In that case a good salesperson would be able to offer valuable suggestions and show possible goods in the shortest possible time.

Another point which Miss Leigh emphasized was that cheap goods are always extremely expensive and expensive goods of the best quality are cheap in the end, and this was shown to be a plain psychological problem. In fact the psychology of the entire talk was especially appreciated by the Monday and Atharhacton Clubs which are making a study of psychology this year.

Going away from home to buy goods, especially bargains was shown to be a false move in most cases, as Miss Leigh described one buyer whose purchase advertised as a bargain at some little distance from her home cost more than she would have paid right around the corner, when the added car fare, the price of a soda because of her fatigue in going so far, and the time lost in going so far, made the bargain a loss.

John Radenburgh of No. 50 Ravine street, reported to the police department Wednesday evening that the auto of Parker Brinlier had collided with his on Abel street at the entrance to the Rondout Creek bridge. Both cars were somewhat damaged.

Catskill High School Students Strike To Protest Discipline of Smoking Senior

Only fifty of the two hundred students of the Catskill High School answered roll call at the Wednesday afternoon session. Of the remainder one hundred massed into parade formation behind a banner bearing the legend, "The High School Pupils Are on a Strike" and paraded Main street and the residential section.

The strike was caused by the anticipation of a proposed action to restrain Chauncey Smith, a senior, from taking further part in school activities because he had violated a ruling of the board of education by smoking on school premises. The break came Monday night when the senior class presented its play, "Dilly's Aunt Jane" in the auditorium. Smith played the leading role. In one of the acts there was a camp scene, where four boys smoked cigarettes to give the proper atmosphere. The cast had been warned to blue pencil the smoking scene. The pupils ignored the warning and four smoked. The faculty, it is said, told pupils the next day that school authorities were taking action and that Smith would be barred from further school activities.

'The Duke' Broke Sister Refused To Prosecute

Well Known Staples Street Truckman at City Hall Today Seeking Warrant for William J. Baglivi, a Taxi Driver, on Assault Charge.

James Perry of No. 17 Staples street, well known truckman, was at the city hall this morning with a badly discolored eye and a broken nose as the result of the impact of the fist of William J. Baglivi of No. 112 First avenue, better known among the taxi fraternity as "The Duke."

According to Perry's story he was driving his truck through the Strand about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at the intersection of Hasbrouck avenue, Baglivi jumped onto the truck and struck him in the face and tried to haul him off the truck. Perry went to the Kingston City Hospital where he had his injuries dressed. His overcoat was badly spattered with blood.

The trouble arose over a recent incident in the town of Ulster, according to Mr. Perry's version of it. At that time a state trooper named Miller, who is stationed at East Kingston, arrested Baglivi and summoned Perry as a witness. Perry said that at that time "The Duke" made threats that he would get him. Baglivi evidently expected that there would be further trouble for shortly after the alleged assault on the Strand he retained Attorney Chris J. Flanagan to look after his interests. Mr. Perry has retained Attorney William H. Grogan.

McAdoo Wins In Georgia

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Atlanta, Ga., March 20.—With unofficial returns giving William Gibbs McAdoo a four to one victory over Senator Oscar W. Underwood, his only opponent, in the state Democratic presidential preference primary, it was conceded today that Georgia's 28 votes will be pledged to McAdoo at the national convention.

Latest returns from 147 out of 160 counties gave McAdoo 392 county unit votes to Underwood's 80.

Although a few scattered sections have not been heard from, it was not considered likely that any material change will be made in the outcome during the day.

Ulster County Olympic Committee Organizes For Active Campaign

Under Leadership of Charles A. Warren an Energetic Effort Will be Made to Impress the Value of Athletics on the Young Men of the County.

The organization meeting of the Ulster County Olympic Committee held last night, went over with a bang. The newspaper reports from headquarters of the American Olympic Committee that only $40,000 of the $350,000 needed had been received only served to spur on the Ulster county committee in their determination to raise the Ulster county quota. The meeting was called to order by Charles A. Warren, who in a few pointed remarks, outlined the problem before the committee. Louis Coe, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the need of cooperation, not only in efforts of this kind, but in everything where Ulster county was represented. He expressed the opinion that one of the many important things which should be called to the attention of Ulster county is the question of national pride in having this country well represented in an assembly of all the nations of the world.

Tentative plans of the committee were next outlined by Ralph C. Craig, winner of the 100 and 200 Meter Races in the 1912 Olympic Games, held in Stockholm. Mr. Craig then touched on the feeling of the international friendship which was developed at the Olympic meets and the benefits, which in his opinion, had resulted from the broadening of the viewpoint of the boys in this country in regard to our relations with other nations.

Mr. Craig said that a man in Ellenville had expressed the idea which had been very commonly held by a great many people in relation to the Olympic Games. The man said he was interested but had never given any thought to the matter of financing. He just considered that the United States sent a team over. Mr. Craig's retort was "Yes, but haven't you forgotten that you are a part of the United States?"

The committee for Ulster county consists of:

Charles A. Warren, chairman.
Charles B. Finch, Kingston Club.

Y.W.C.A. Lenten Supper Enjoyed

Wednesday evening the attendance at the Lenten supper at the Y. W. C. A. went up to the hundred mark, showing the increasing interest both in the supper itself and the after talk. The menu for the supper included hot potato cakes, cold roast pork, apple sauce, pickles, bread and butter, hot coffee and chocolate pudding. Mrs. Rice asked the blessing and Miss Cordes acted as hostess for the evening. As usual, during the supper there was singing by the girls, which always adds sauce to the supper. Announcement was made by Miss Estey of the coming concert on April 8, when Charles Baldwin Allen, Scottish baritone, assisted by J. Clarendon McClure, will give their song recital at the Y. W. C. A. It was learned later in the evening that already the tickets were selling well.

Miss Cordes introduced as the speaker for the evening Mr. Buley in charge of our playground work and physical culture training in the high school, who spoke on "Recreation," which Mr. Buley said, Webster defined as "The act of recreating or the state of being recreated; refreshment of the body or mind after toil; diversion or amusement; any diverting or pleasurable exercise or employment or rest; refreshment, amusement or sport."

The speaker said that just the definition proved the value of recreation. Mr. Buley then showed how doing the same mental work over and over or the same physical work hour after hour, puts one in such a rut that he or she loses value to him or herself and to the employer if one be engaged in business or industry. Just physical exercise after a day of monotony in work so refreshes both mind and body that sleep is super-inducible and one finds oneself with renewed energy and clear-mindedness ready to give of their best to God and man.

Mr. Buley said there were two types of recreation; active and passive, and both are needed. To those having little or no physical exercise during the day, Mr. Buley recommended the former, and spoke of walking, games, dancing, gymnasiums, etc., as being especially valuable. Included in the passive type were attendance upon good movies, auto riding, social gatherings, reading, etc., all of which help to relieve the mind and help toward clear thinking. Recreational fads, especially those that take one out of doors, were shown to have their values. Along spiritual lines, Mr. Buley reminded his hearers that Christ himself entered into social activities and recreations; went aside to recreate His soul in prayer, and as we today realize that Jesus was a human being as we are, in addition to His divinity, it is well for us to take Him as our example in this as in other things.

Mr. Buley closed his valuable talk by urging the necessity of recreation of body, mind and spirit upon all present and of taking the right sort of recreation that will make for more perfect and healthy bodies; clearer minds and finer, more Christ-like souls or spirits. It was a highly appreciated talk. At the supper next Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seely will speak on "Relationship." All applications for attendance at next Wednesday's supper should be in at the Y. W. C. A. not later than next Monday.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Gripe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister. Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

Put Stamps on Tax Returns

The state income tax bureau has been notified by 75 New York state post offices that they are holding hundreds of unstamped envelopes addressed to that bureau.

Director Thomas M. Lynch has advised these postmasters that the bureau has no funds at its disposal to pay for this postage. "This means," he explained, "that these returns will never be filed and these persons will be classed as delinquents subject to the usual penalties unless they put in other returns before April 15.

"The state, of course, has no authority to issue 'franked' or free envelopes and the pink ones which we enclosed with the 1923 forms required postage just the same as any other mail matter.

"Where taxpayers in business are in the habit of attaching bulky business schedules to their returns they must take the precaution of dropping the envelope on the postal scale and finding out if it has enough postage before mailing. If it comes to our office shy of the proper stamps we will have to reject it.

"These facts, we trust, will be carefully considered by the half million of taxpayers who have not yet filed their 1923 returns.

"As in previous years, our first peak of receipts on March 15, the federal due date, has been followed by a slump in both the returns received by mail and those over our district office counters. These agencies at 220 West 40th street, Manhattan, 317 Washington street, Brooklyn and Bergen building, Tremont and Arthur avenues, Bronx, and at Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo have an adequate personnel to render prompt assistance to taxpayers at this time. We strongly urge individuals, members of partnerships, or those under the duty of filing returns for estates or trusts, to avail themselves of this assistance."

It is the desire of the pastor that as many of the members of the church as possible be present at these services during the Lenten season. The services will be helpful and the music inspiring.

The Senior C. E. Society will hold a social in the chapel on Friday evening at 7:30. It is hoped that all the members will be present. The new charter will be exhibited and plans will be made for the mission study class.

The Women's Missionary Society meets on Friday afternoon at 2:30 in the chapel. There is important business to be transacted. Mrs. Rufus Kelder will read, and the request is made that all mite boxes be returned at this meeting. The social hour will be enjoyed. It is hoped that there may be a very large attendance of the members.

Circle No. 1 of the Ladies' Aid Society will serve a hot roast pork supper in the chapel next Wednesday evening between the hours of 5 and 8. The price is moderate and the public are cordially invited to test the excellent cooking of the ladies.

The St. Patrick's social given by Circle No. 1 of the Ladies' Aid Society last Monday evening was a great success. The chapel was well filled and everyone seemed to have a very enjoyable time. A fine program was given and it is needless to say that everyone acquitted themselves most creditably. Paul Barnum played a piano number. This was followed by a duet by Miss Mildred LeRoy and Mrs. Frank Blumley, a recitation by Miss Thelma Hicks, a duet by Henry Bighmes and the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, a recitation by Master George Kent, a vocal solo by Miss Maudie Hopper and a vocal solo by Miss Mildred LeRoy. All the numbers were so thoroughly enjoyed that encores were in order. The recitations by the younger ones were unusually fine with possibilities of a bright future. The ladies served splendid refreshments and with the chorus singing and the sociability of the people the evening went all too quickly.

Next Sunday evening Mr. Nesslage, Boy Scout executive, will speak and it is hoped that the boys and young men of the church will be present in large numbers. The adults of the congregation are also urged to attend.

SHADY.

Shady, March 19.—Miss Kathryn Reynolds of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Reynolds.

Mrs. C. I. Van Aken is spending the week dressmaking at the home of Mrs. Martin Willow.

Mrs. Richard Reynolds and daughter, Lillian, of Woodstock, were entertained at the home of her sister, Mrs. George E. Rose, Jr.

Mrs. S. R. Vosburgh called to see her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Stone, and family Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. F. W. Burbanck and Mrs. Charles Reynolds spent Tuesday afternoon quilting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hoyt. They also had supper and spent the evening.

Miss Anna Rose called at the home of Mrs. Royal Carle Tuesday.

The amount cleared from the Spider-web Social was seventy-seven dollars. Everyone who attended this social reported a fine time and hoped the ladies would have something else just as interesting in the near future.

Several from this place attended the play entitled "The Church Fair," given at Woodstock Saturday night.

Wednesday the ladies of the Missionary Society had a quilting at the home of Mrs. A. W. Cooper of Lake Hill.

Bank Declares Dividend.

The trustees of the Ulster County Savings Institution at the regular meeting Tuesday evening declared the usual quarterly dividend on deposits for the three months ending March 31, at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, payable April 1.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

Nearly 58 years a postmaster—such is the long distance record of office holding hung up by John N. Van Zandt, who is in charge of the mails at Blawenburg, N. J. On April 23 next, Mr. Van Zandt will celebrate the 58th anniversary of his appointment to his present position. Not long thereafter he will celebrate his 80th birthday. He was 22 years old when President Andrew Johnson signed his commission as postmaster.

Blawenburg, for the information of those who may not recall the location of this coming metropolis, is about halfway between Philadelphia and New York.

The duties of the postmastership are not so heavy as to engage Mr. Van Zandt's entire attention, so he also runs a general store and tends a two acre tract of garden and fruit trees. He rises at 6 o'clock in the morning, eats heartily, worries none at all and smokes just as much as he wishes. He is a believer in the Volstead law, the Republican party and the theory of heredity.

His grandfather lived to reach the age of 91 and his great-grandfather, 96. He doesn't see any special reason why he shouldn't do likewise, nor do his friends, for in general appearance he seems to be nearer 60 than 80 years of age.

Mr. Van Zandt has held office longer than any other postmaster in the United States. The chief reason for this, according to officials of the department, is that he has always been attentive to his duties, courteous and obliging.

THE RENAISSANCE OF THE FASCINATING SHAWL.

(By Eleanor Gumm.)

The fascinating subject of shawls is well nigh inexhaustible. While Spanish mantles are by far the most popular and costly, there are rival types, many of which are in smaller sizes, like overgrown scarfs. Since the average woman folds her shawl so that the corner which would come in the center is omitted, the resemblance between a scarf and shawl is more pronounced.

One of the most charming versions of the idea is the chiffon shawl matching the gown and edged with lace instead of fringe. It has a quaint charm which appeals to the type of girl who likes a flower in her hair, whether it is bobbed or not, and a low shoulder line, but it appeals to others as well. A pale yellow chiffon gown with yellow silk lace in a deep flounce from below the knee, had a shawl also lace edged, which, when draped over the shoulders, ended below the hipline.

Not only are shawls in themselves much in demand, but dresses fashioned of them are seen here and there, the fringe nearly always retained as a trimming. While multi-colored embroideries are used for these dresses, the majority are made of self-colored crepe shawls and more often, of course, of those which have a rather scant arrangement of embroidery.

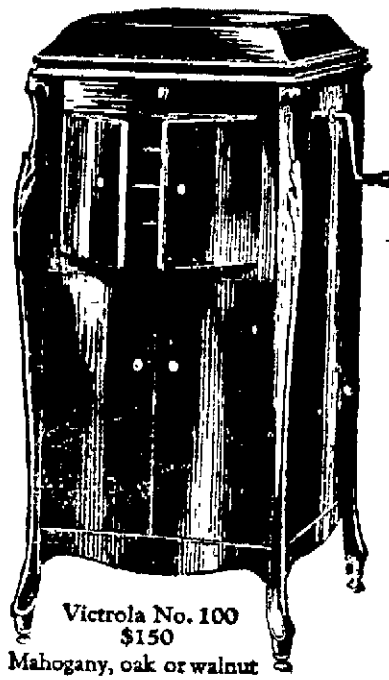

Batik and stenciled shawls are highly decorative and in one instance, a huge leaf design in the most flamboyant colors on a white gown, was outlined with embroidery. Among the shawl novelties which have no less a sponsor than the Queen of Spain, are the net shawls with either embroidered borders or embroidery motifs sprawling over their entire surface. They are more ornamental than useful, one must admit.

The average girl sets her thinking

Following the testimony of F. C. Quimby, New York motion picture producer, that he paid money to show the Dempsey-Carpenter fight pictures in 22 States in violation of the Interstate Commerce laws, Charles E. ("Tex") Rickard, fight promoter; William O. Orr, formerly private secretary of ex-Governor Messers, President William T. Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State, has been forced by illness to cancel all his Victor Emmanuel for his part in the Piusa annexation. The Prince of Wales, recovering from his second serious accident in a few weeks, has been called upon by the British press to cease steeplechase riding.

cap more comfortably on her boyish bob and wonders how she can best wheedle grandma or some elderly aunt out of her cherished shawl, long since laid away in lavender. Some of the most admired specimens worn down South this winter have been resurrected from the family chest, and they are not always silk. With the appreciation of the small cashmere squares of Central European design, comes an appreciation of the woolen shawl not of Paisley but of Roman origin, the more garly striped the better.

Not more than a season ago, the average woman felt that it was not possible to get through a resort season without a cape. Now she feels that a shawl is a worthy substitute. Many an evening dress has a square of its own material or something which is in harmony to go with it.

Capes are worn but to a much more limited degree, for between the shawl and the three-quarter coat, one's loyalty to the cape is severely tested. Moire coats made on severely tailored lines and even in white, are among the resort favorites, frequently omitting the fur collar.

White to Prevail Next Two Seasons

Fashion Writer at Winter
Resort Tells of Modes in Limelight.

Writing of the styles that promise to prevail this spring and summer, a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, who has made the rounds of winter resorts, says:

Although this is a season of beautiful colors, white is of course worn extensively in every possible form of fabric for every sort of occasion. It is ever more youthful and fresh, and nothing else so well forgives any slighting in quality or workmanship. The very simplest frock of all white, so it be correct in style, with proper shoes, hat and other accompaniments, is always fresh. This season's frocks in white are a delight and their variety amazing.

As sports suits with the trim little skirt picked or flared, tailored, the conventional blouse and coat is the most stable item in the wardrobe. This is severely plain this season, of flannel, faille, roushara or fine silk, and the silhouette is absolutely flawless. The overblouse, which is a part of the suit, is a simple thing of silk or crepe, held into a wide hip and its sleeves are long, short, or none at all.

The outfit beloved of the flapper and copied by many a senior is the sports suit and sweater of entertaining design. These, with flat beach shoes and cloche or tan top, put the young woman in the most becoming and comfortable harness for the day's contests and diversions.

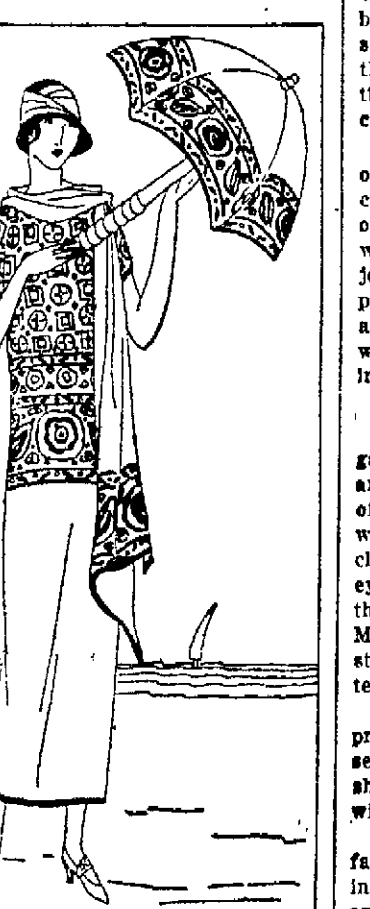

Quite as popular are the one-piece frocks, opening in the front, with wide collar turning away from the neck, long or short sleeves, belt and pockets. In fact, appear to be de rigueur on all the morning dresses, white or colored, and they add a note of tailored smartness—even to the silk frocks. Small buttons and stitched details also are used on some of these informal dresses.

Next to white, the gentle shades, something warmer than the pastels, in blue, green, maize, apricot, salmon and peach, are lovely in the one-piece frocks. In some of the latest models white is embroidered in one of these colors—a one-piece gown of white poplin, for example, trimmed with bands of needlework or stitched embroidery in color.

Contrasts Are Startling. In occasional models these contrasts are startling. In one the tunic blouse of maize-colored crepe—the flounce, the length, of white crepe, in fine silk—and the square neck and wristbands of the long sleeves are trimmed with embroidery in maize silk.

A striking model in the one-piece gown is made of a fine, heavy quality white flat crepe. An arabesque pattern of black cloth cut in wide strips is applied over the entire frock. With this is offered a parasol of white silk, on which a great wide-winged bird is stamped, the handle and frame being of light bamboo; a cloche of white taffeta and straw, and shoes of white kid with narrow buckled straps of patent leather.

A decided novelty in the white frocks is one of muslin embroidery and silk. The upper part of the frock is a tunic of eyelet all-over embroidery, cut in Russian blouse style and almost knee length. The straight sleeves are short to the elbow, and about them and the edge of the tunic is a stitched band of white silk of which the foundation slip is made and finished with a deep flounce of narrow white.

Popular Model That Has Been in Favor for Morning Wear.

Other unusual combinations of material are shown in these softer day-frocks—silk and flannel, cloth and crepe, and embroidery on any sort of fabric.

A fashionable model is a little slipper-sleeved dress of coarse open-weave white canvas of square mesh. The side of the bodice is open to the waistline, meeting under the arm, and the neck is cut in a deep V. Under this is worn a shirt of white silk, crepe de chine or fine batiste, and with the dress is worn a narrow belt of white leather.

This sleeveless, smart and thoroughly easy little frock is quite the rage and is being made in light twills, ribbed silk and poplin in pretty colors, with the under blouse of sheers white, and with sunshade and shoes matching the dress in color.

Usually the hat is a small close shape in white with a bit of the color introduced with needlework.

Knitted or Woven Dress. The knitted or woven dress is translated into a weight suited to June-like days. One stunning model, uncommonly smart, is of black silk jersey.

Maize-Colored Crepe and Self-Toned Embroidered Outfit.

like weave. The skirt, attached to an underbodice, is straight, with deep hem, and gathered slightly full at the waist. The overblouse is embroidered in a solid, all-over pattern, in white silk, which also finishes the short elbow-length sleeves with a deep cuff border.

An overblouse and a slip of pale yellow satin crepe is embroidered in white floss. A white flat crepe is heavily embroidered in jade green. A maize-colored one-piece crepe gown has the straight long-waisted bodice and sleeves embroidered in self-toned silk, and the skirt is plain to the knee, finishing in a plaited flounce.

A frock of hydrangea blue is embroidered in the same shade and one deeper, and both yellow and green in the lighter shades are popular. The combinations of black and white are popular and some are exceedingly smart.

Some very cute things are seen among the odds and ends, so to speak, of outing togs. One is the white cloth waistcoat, cut on the lines of the hostler's waistcoat worn in the heavier sports suits. It is sleeveless and severely tailored, and is worn with a white sports skirt and tailored shirt most suitably for golf and tennis.

The greatest variety is shown in sports skirts. The plain tailored or slightly gathered and the plaited skirt are equally good. White is the rage, of course, but many snappy styles are shown in plaids, checks and stripes, especially stripes that are conspicuously wide and are more modish. In black and white than in colors. Roman striped materials are seen on many of the overblouses as a trimming, sometimes as a knotted tie, under a sailor collar.

Sweaters are a conspicuous feature of the sports costume, decorative and comfortable as they are for so many occasions. They are all of lightweight wool or silk, knitted loosely, or in jersey ribbed weave, and the most popular designs are of white on which a pattern is traced in colors. The wildest flights of fancy are illustrated in many styles now in vogue.

Hats Are Unique. Hats for the present season are engaging, and some are unique. An amusing little model is hand-crocheted of fine white wool, as a table mat would be done, but in the shape of a cloche, the scalloped edge shading the eyes. A green ribbon is tied around the crown and is knotted at one side. Many hats are shown in fine white straw, in taffeta, ribbon or other material.

Some lovely shapes are shown by a prominent milliner in wide ribbon sewn together to form the dome-shaped crown and covered entirely with tiny ribbon flowers fastened flat.

A pretty and suitable type of hat is fashioned of silk and straw combined in alternating strips, light, summery and new. Tams and the soft feather-weight felts are for beach wear and boating chiefly, and the fancy more elaborate hats, in both the close and wide-brim models, are those worn for dressy afternoon wear.

Gloves are a negligible quantity, being worn little; but some new styles are seen in white or yellow chambray, suede and kid, some quite richly embroidered, and most of them in the Biarritz or gauntlet type.

Wraps required at resorts are in light or medium weight, simple, smart and picturesque. The long cape of military cut shown among the most exclusive Paris models is particularly popular. It is made of silk, taffeta, faille, satin or light-weight cloth. It is easily thrown over any gown, and is always smart. The sports coat in the loose-woven woollens; in white and light colors, is indispensable, and few are shown this season without a collar of shaggy fur.

"Let Joe Do It, He's a Worker"

And Superintendent Joseph Mitchell of the City Hall Shows Folks It's So—"When You Work Give of Your Best to the Job" Is His Motto.

Joseph Mitchell, former alderman and a member of the Spanish-American War veterans, and now superintendent of the city hall is the original "show me" man. Assign Superintendent Mitchell to a job and you can leave the rest to him. The first of the year when Mayor Morris Block assumed office he looked about him for a good man to appoint superintendent of the city hall, and "naturally his choice fell on Mr. Mitchell.

Since then Superintendent Mitchell has been a busy man. With mops, pails of water and plenty of soap he has thoroughly scoured the interior of the city hall with the assistance of Patrick G. Rigney, his capable assistant.

Remembering the days when he graced a seat in the common council as a representative of one of the big downtown wards, Superintendent Mitchell on Monday decided that he would afford the present members of the common council a pleasant surprise. He spent the entire day in the council chamber and when he emerged the woodwork, desks and furniture in the chamber fairly shone from the high polish received, and the aldermen were able to see their reflections without difficulty.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 20, 1924

Writing in Scribner's Magazine of William Jennings Bryan, Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale expresses the wish that the "commoner" would write his autobiography with limitations outlined as follows:

If he would tell in simple, natural language the story of his life leaving out all propaganda on politics and theology, he would, I think, write a book that would live forever. He would have to eschew the oratorical style and, what would be more difficult, the moralizing manner. If he would simply tell the world his own life-story from boyhood to the present day, tell of the various incidents in his campaigns, of the persons he has known in Europe and in America, from Tolstoy to the most humble of his supporters, it would be a permanent record of a phase in American political and social life and a contribution to the literature of the world.

This interesting suggestion is likely to be rejected and, we think wisely. For what would the "Commoner" be without his "propaganda," his "oratorical style" and his "moralizing," into which have gone all his enthusiasm, his earnestness and his conviction? A "life-story" without these, the things that made the Commoner what he was and is would not be Bryan's story. It would be like a body without its soul, like a "Prince of Denmark" with Hamlet left out. Prof. Phelps wants a Bryan book of the West and of the American political arena from a detached outside view such as Mr. Bryan could not possibly become interested in writing, and which if he wrote it, would not reveal himself.

A NAVY YARD'S DILEMMA

Rear-Admiral Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard seems to be the most discouraged advocate of prohibition yet heard from. In his testimony at the police trial of Deputy Inspector Wakefield, charged with failure to enforce the Volstead act, he declared that Washington is "the wettest city in the United States," wetter than even New York, and that "if all the lawyers and all the judges in the country were to give up their entire time for a year and devote it to checking the sale of liquor, they would not make a dent in prohibition." He quoted police captains as saying "There isn't any prohibition. Every house in the area (around the Navy Yard) is making liquor." The Rear-Admiral bluntly testified to having seen "twenty Federal injunctions to padlock places asked for by the police," pigeon-holed by the Federal authorities.

It seems that Rear-Admiral Plunkett put a "bar" on a considerable area contiguous to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, in order to prevent the sale of liquor to navy men in low drinking places, and that the Navy Department then banned the Rear-Admiral's ban. The explanation of this by the New York Times is that the effect of the Plunkett ban was to "prevent the men of the fleet from using the fine building provided for them by the Y. M. C. A." and to prevent the infliction of "hardship on the honest tradesmen in the region." But the gratification among these latter and in the Y. M. C. A. in consequence of the banning of the Plunkett ban, is more than equalled by the "rejoicing in the dives near the yard." As the matter stands, the sailors are free, "there isn't any prohibition," and the Rear-Admiral is disgusted. Apparently the solution of the difficulty, by compromise or otherwise, is not in sight.

Peanuts have a very important influence on politics in North Carolina. Like all other Southern states, North Carolina is solidly Democratic. Once or twice in recent years it has elected a Republican Congressman from a western district but the two Senators and all the other Congressmen are Democratic. They always record their votes against a protective tariff law. But North Carolina is in the inconsistent position of being Democratic at the same time that it is trying to maintain a peanut industry, and peanuts need protection. Even the Democratic Senators and Congressmen from North Carolina concede the imperative necessity of maintaining a protective tariff on peanuts in order to keep out the cheaply produced and cheaply shelled peanuts from the Orient. Nevertheless, although acknowledging the need for a protective tariff on peanuts, the legislators from North Carolina continue to vote against a protective tariff law. What the North Carolinians need is a general revision of their ideas on the subject of protection and the acceptance of the protective policy as a fundamental of American economics.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

THOSE "S" CURVES.

You have sometimes felt a pain down at the lower left side of your abdomen just a little to the inner side of the point of the hip bone.

You have said to yourself, "If that pain were on the right side, I'd think I had appendicitis."

Because as a matter of fact it is almost exactly in the corresponding position to the appendix on the right side.

What is the pain? Simply gas pressure.

Why does gas lodge there?

Well, the large intestine is practically a reservoir for all the material that is of no further use to the body.

It has a long straight drop, from a point almost opposite the stomach on the left side of the body down to the hip bone.

It then curves inward, then straight downward, and then inward again. Thus an actual "S" curve is formed within the space of a few inches.

You can see then that with the tube a little smaller in (caliber) at this point anyway, and then an "S" curve in it, that any unusual accumulation of gas is going to cause distension and very often some pain because of the difficulty of passing two sharp curves.

As a matter of fact there is an "S" curve on the right side also where the small and the large intestine come together.

Gas likewise accumulates here and causes pain and distress.

The only point here is that you might take it for appendicitis and worry about it.

On the other hand if you thought it were only gas, it might possibly be a suppurating appendix, and time would be lost.

What is my suggestion?

If you have pain in the abdomen that seems to shift from place to place it means gas only.

In the left lower side it is likely also gas.

And to relieve the pain?

Simply bend and rock the body from side to side and the gas will be moved along.

If severe the ordinary soap and water injection is effective.

And if the pain is on the right side?

Don't take a chance. See your doctor. If the pain passes away as you are on your way to see him so much the better.

Original "Star Rover"

A prisoner in San Quentin named Morrell as the original leading character in the "Star Rover" by Jack London. When he was a boy, he was a member of an outlaw gang in California. He was captured and condemned to life imprisonment because he rebelled he was condemned to years of solitary imprisonment in a dark cell. For long periods he was placed in a "jacket" into which he was strapped as tightly as three men could lace him. Morrell found that while he was being tortured he could hypnotize himself. His experiences were incorporated in Jack London's novel.

Unusual Baseball Uniform

The old "Chickasaws," who were famous in the early eighties, were known for startling uniforms. Their white stockinged legs were always in evidence, and sometimes wide short Dutch pants were worn, while at other times the tightest sort of black tights were worn. In one season they actually wore dress suits—stiff-bosomed white shirts and all—removing the spike-tailed coats while actually on the ball field.

WHY

We Now Use Quinine to Cure Fever.

Quinine is obtained from the powdered bark of the cinchona tree. Early in the seventeenth century the Countess of Cinchona and her husband went to live at Lima, Peru, the countess having been appointed viceroy. In one of the provinces grew a tree the bark of which was said to cure fever. The governor of the province, hearing some years later that the countess had contracted the dread disease, sent her a parcel of the bark.

It cured her, and later, on returning to Spain, she took with her quantities of the drug. In spite of prejudice its use became popular. The trees from which it was obtained were gradually being used up, and the drug became expensive.

In 1880 Sir Clements Markham organized an expedition to Peru to collect plants of the cinchona with the idea of introducing their culture into India, where it was thought they would grow well, and where the use of the drug would be beneficial in view of the climatic conditions being so conducive to fever.

Although the plants died on the way to India, the seeds survived, and now there are flourishing plantations in Burma and Ceylon, while more recently the tree has been cultivated with success in Jamaica and South Africa.

Why Joke Must Have Punch

A no less learned individual than Solomon himself is responsible for the statement that "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine." In these hurried, busy, strenuous days one is entitled to at least one good laugh every 24 hours. The two principal sources from which these laughs must be drawn are from books and from folks, and of course, after all, the printed page is merely the vehicle which another uses to talk to you.

For a joke to be successful, these requirements are essential, to-wit:

It must be a joke. That is, there must be a positive "punch" to it. It mustn't be funny to just a few; it must have about it a sort of universality.

And lest we forget it, don't laugh at your own joke. By all means be in a good humor when you tell it. After you have told it, if nobody laughs, don't repeat it, for your audience will laugh even less if they must suffer listening to the repetition.

If you are temperamental—that is, if you are noticeably self-conscious, or if you are overserious of nature, or inclined toward despondency, or if you belong to the reserved, overdignified class—you had better not attempt telling a joke at all—at least until you can overcome some of these peculiarities. Many a good joke has been spoiled by the teller. To be funny to others there must be about us an atmosphere of complete relaxation, ease, abandon, off-handedness and spontaneity.

Don't tell your joke to the wrong crowd—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Why Insects Excel Men

Most of the articles in that great chest of tools that man's inventive genius has contrived were invented by the insect world before he fashioned the first, writes Ernest Bader, Ph. D., in Popular Science Monthly. Moreover, man's tools are usually inferior in precision and versatility.

Saws, pliers, brushes, augers, hooks, hammers, knives, lancets—all of these and yet other tools are in the insects' remarkable chest. Nature attached them to the insects' bodies—to the legs to the head, to the abdomen, wherever they were needed. They are made of chitin, a material that, unlike the metal tools of man, resists the action of water and the milder acids. The insect tool chest is truly complete, one of its wonders being the closeness of the resemblance of the articles it contains to the tools that man has been so long in fashioning.

Why "Pentateuch" Is Used

The word "Pentateuch" is used to designate the first five books of the Old Testament—namely, Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. The meaning of the word is interesting. "Pentateuch" comes from the Greek words "pente," which means five and "teuchos," book.

It is worthy of note that we got our first knowledge of the Old Testament, like the New, from the Greeks. It is a fact in this connection that Deuteronomy, one of the first five books of the Bible, owes its name to the Greek language, from "deuter," second, and "nomos," law.

Having come to us through the Greek language, the Old Testament bears signs of its transmission through Greek agencies.—Detroit News

Why Lines Are Crooked

Why are the dividing lines so crooked between the time sections in this country?

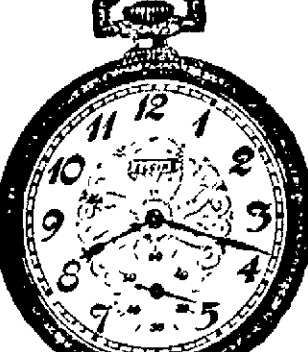

The interstate commerce commission fixes the boundaries between time zones. Often the boundaries are made to depart from the halfway position between the standard meridians in order to suit the convenience of the railroads or to meet the demands of the communities affected.

Why We Call It a Match

The derivation of the term "match" as used in the present sense is obscure. It is probably from the Greek and Latin "myxa," meaning a nozzle of a lamp. In 1587 we find reference in literature to matches, the name being applied to the wick of a candle or lamp. The earliest reference to matches in their present sense is found in 1530.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MOTHER BROWN BAT

"My dear little children," said Mother Brown Bat to her two Bat babies, "you must hang on tight to your mother while she carries you about with her. You are not yet two weeks old and you must stay with mother all the time."

"Hang on tight and you will be safe as I fly through the air. For every night I must go a-marketing."

"Some like to do their marketing early in the morning. It is then that they think they get the best pick of everything."

"But Mother Brown Bat likes the early evening best, for then the insects are out and the markets are filled with delicious goodies."

"Of course I mean the insect markets when I speak of our markets. When you are a little older I will leave you at home while I go marketing and you will be safe waiting for me."

"But when you are so very tiny and so very helpless mother must have you with her all the time."

"Yes, my babies, such are the mother bat ways."

"When you are three months old you will be able to look out for yourselves."

"Ah, how splendid you will be then, and how much you will know, but you won't be your mother's little babies any longer and I will miss you, my little loves."

Mother Brown Bat flew off for insects. Such delicacies as she knew how to pick out. She knew how to feel things before she even touched them. Oh, Mother Brown Bat was not stupid.

And after they were home again, and before Mother Brown Bat was ready to hang herself up by the hind feet for a comfortable day's sleep, she had more to say to her babies.

And in her funny, little squeaking voice, she said:

"Oh, my babies, it is very unfair the way we are talked about. It is very unfair, indeed."

"They say we are dirty, and we aren't dirty! You know they think it is horrible if we come around, because they say we are so dirty—and it's untrue gossip."

"That's what it is. It hurts us particularly as we are so very clean. You know how I've taught you to take such care of yourselves and how cleanliness is something we must all think about."

"You must lick every part of your body you can possibly reach—and you will find you can just about reach every part of it by twisting and turning and getting into funny positions. Then you must take your splendid claws of your hind feet and comb your hair neatly and thoroughly."

"A Brown Bat would be a disgrace to Bat circles if he didn't take care of himself. We all do, every one of us."

"Why people say we are dirty I do not know—save that once some one must have said so who knew nothing about us—so many talk who don't know of what they are speaking—and so the gossip spread."

"And when you think of the insects we eat and of the wonderful help we are to people it seems very sad and very unfair and very unjust that people should shudder when they see us and should say:

"Ugh, see the horrid, dirty bat!"

"But some day they will know better. I hope, and in the meantime, for our sakes and for our own pride and for our own love of cleanliness, we will be as neat as we can be."

"Good-night, my babies!" And Mother Brown Bat and her babies went to sleep, for daytime was breaking.

Why He Waited

Bobby asked for a cent's worth of candy, and the proprietress, recognizing him as a neighbor's child, served him, and then handed him his penny back. This was repeated for several mornings, the little fellow receiving both candy and penny. At last the proprietress thought it was getting a bit strong so one morning she kept the penny. The little chap lingered around and when asked why he waited he replied: "I want my change."

GAS BUGGIES—It's Things Like This That Make Life Worth Living

The Kitchen Cabinet

(G. 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)
Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

SATISFYING DISHES

Sometime when there is a small piece of steak that needs to be extended to furnish the family a good meal try:

Dumplings With Steak.—Cook the steak first on one side in a smoking hot frying pan, season well and cover with boiling water. Drop on dumplings made from any good recipe or use the following: One cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a cupful of milk, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of fat. Drop by spoonfuls on the steak and cover tightly, steam for twenty minutes.

Creamed Cabbage and Green Peppers.—Take one pint of shredded cooked cabbage, set over hot water in a double boiler. Fry two tablespoonfuls of minced onion and one minced green pepper in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Remove the vegetables, add to the cabbage and make a white sauce by using two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, the same of flour, and when well blended add one cupful of milk. Cook until thick, season with salt and cayenne and add the sauce to the cabbage. Serve hot.

Tuna Fish Loaf.—Take a pound can of tuna fish, two eggs, one-half cupful of water, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of celery salt, one cupful of bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, the juice of half a lemon and a dash of cayenne. Mix well, season to taste, and put into a well-greased bread pan and brown. Turn out and serve with:

Parsley Sauce.—Wash and cover with boiling water one bunch of parsley to which a pinch of salt and soda has been added. Cook ten minutes, strain and add to a cupful of rich white sauce, stir in a tablespoonful of minced parsley and pour over the loaf.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Janus

The Ford influence is considerable, but his won't be the only fiver in the campaign.

A girl with a contagious laugh is worth catching.

Many valuable men are spoiled by hobbies, and yet a man without a hobby may be going around in a ring. Have a hobby, but don't let it own you.

When a man dies his shortcomings are buried with him; when he runs for office they are spread before the public in bold-faced type.

Don't become discouraged in 1924! Remember the mighty oak—it was once a nut, too.

People who cannot smile are in the same class with the woman who cannot cook—people dodge them.

'Tis the Truth.

A festive breeze; a maiden fair. Who salutes forth to get the air. Clad in some light and clinging clothes.

Low neck, high skirts and silken hose. Ah, fears she not she'll get the chills?

A cold? Sore throat? Or kindred ills? Not much: But let a MAN go out. With coat unbuttoned, stroll about. And let HIM meet that self-same breeze.

And there will come a gentle sneeze. And after that? PNEUMONIA.

This column came near slipping the other morning, chuckles The Office Cat. It was about to make its annual presentation of smelling peach buds and maple blooms.

Jimmy—Pa, do people grow on trees?

Pa—Of course, not, Johnny.

What makes you ask? Jimmy—Well, last night down town I heard sister's new beau telling someone sis is a little peach but you're a big prune.

Another Paradox.

Things which happen in the dark generally make the lightest reading matter.

Folks should be happy while they can. They may be rich some day, and can't be.

It is hard to tell which is the more exasperating, the street car conductor who is grumpy on the mornings you feel cheery, or the one who insists on being good natured on the mornings you carry a grouch.

One afternoon a stranger debarked from a train and headed up the street. Finally he met one of our oldest citizens. "Pardon me," said the stranger, "are you a resident of this town?" "Yes, sir," was the reply of the other. "I have been here something like fifty years. What can I do for you?" "I am looking for a criminal lawyer," responded the stranger, "have you one here?" "Well," said the native, reflectively, "we think we have, but we can't prove it on him."

The doctor's advice to the patient. "Keep your eye on the swelling on the back of your neck. I don't like the looks of it."

Nothing is heavy to a man which necessity brings.

A Hot Breakfast—Quick

QUICK QUAKER

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes!

Quaker Oats, too. 2 styles at grocers' now. Quick Quaker and Quaker Oats, the kind you've always known.

Here's a vigor breakfast in a hurry. Ask your grocer for Quick Quaker. Cooks in half the time of coffee, faster than eggs, no longer than plain toast!

So start the day right with a HOT breakfast—best for you, best for the youngsters.

Same plump flakes as regular Quaker Oats, the kind you've known. But cut before flaking, rolled thinner and partly cooked—smaller flakes that cook faster, that's the only difference.

All the rare Quaker flavor. All the nourishment of the world's premier vigor breakfast. But—no bother cooking.

Mixture of Six Oils Stops Colds

A remarkable new, scientific combination of six antiseptic oils has been perfected that brings such amazing results in all kinds of colds, inflammation, catarrh, etc., that it tends to prevent pneumonia and other serious complications.

Druggists dispense this mixture of six oils under the name WUNDEROIL. You simply apply it on the outside of the throat and chest and up the nostrils. It penetrates instantly to the inflamed membranes and air passages, clearing the nostrils in a jiffy and driving out the inflammation of deep chest colds, sore throat, etc. For croupy colds of children it can't be beat. For sale in Kingston at Dedrick's Drug Store, Mahan & Walker and Connelly Drug Co.

Cost of Beauty

My Cost, $100,000—yours, 50c a week

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My quest of beauty cost mother me at least $100,000. We reached the world to get the best science had to offer.

These helps made me famous beauty. And they have kept me beautiful beauty to my grand old

Now I want others to enjoy those helps. I have arranged so all get them. Any girl of woman use all my helps at a cost not 50c per week.

White Youth Clay

My skin is like a baby's yet mine is grandmother's age. I owe that to a superclay which France used for me.

Like the crude and muddy clays many still employ. This clay is refined and dainty. It is based on 20 years of scientific study. No time clay brings comparable results.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It is silky, lustrous, luxuriant and grows finer every year. Dandruff, falling hair and gray hair are unknown to me.

This hair which millions envy is due to my Hair Youth. I apply it with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. There it combats hardened oil and dandruff, which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. Then hair thrives just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden. One minute a dry does all this. My Hair Youth with eye dropper costs 50c and $1.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's products. With each comes a guarantee. Experts tell me that these are the best things in existence. I hope that what they did for me and mine will induce you to try them. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Two master creams

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I also found in France.

Great beauty experts the world over now employ it, but they charge too much.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt, oil, grime and dead skin come out with it. One never knows what a clean skin means until she cleans it this way. My Facial Youth costs 75c.

My Youth Cream is my cold cream—another French creation. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the skin texture. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Every hour I keep my skin protected by it. This matchless cream—My Youth Cream—costs you 60c per jar.

R-G-R Store To Have Mystery

Prize of $500 For One Who Makes Curzylus Smile Three Next Week—Another Prize.

Curzylus, 20th century mystery who has puzzled scientists and physicians throughout the world, can be seen the week of March 24 at the Rose-Gorman-Rose store. Curzylus has been shown in Europe as well as the United States, and out of the many millions of people who have seen it not one has been able to win the handsome cash prize of $500 in gold that is offered to anyone who can make Curzylus smile.

If Curzylus is a man, he is some man. Then again if she is a woman, it must be admitted she is a beauty. Then again if it is just a piece of machinery one must say it is the most cleverly constructed piece of machinery in the world. Here are some of the things people claim is the matter with Curzylus: That it is only half human and half machine, that it has wooden arms and legs, glass eyes, rubber face and a thousand other things too numerous to mention. It has been kissed by 500,000 during the many years it has been on exhibition and it is expected that a few of the pretty girls of Kingston will gather up courage and approach Curzylus some time during the week.

Shakespeare once asked, "What is in a name?" Arguing from that basis Curzylus will pass without question. Mr. Alton, creator of Curzylus, when asked what the name meant, would not satisfy the curious but said many years ago in the days of Pharaoh in the inner temples of the high priests there lived a man called Curzylus who was proclaimed by the multitude as a man of mystery. This also applies to the modern Curzylus. Rose-Gorman-Rose are giving coupons away to be filled in and anyone is entitled to guess what Curzylus is. The winner will be given a valuable cash prize.

If you think you are a good joke teller or that you are funny all you have to do is make Curzylus smile and make $500.

Churchill Gets Third Beating

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, March 20.—Otho Nicholson, a Tory, has been elected to the House of Commons in the Westminster district defeating his three opponents, including former Minister Spencer Churchill, it was announced this afternoon.

The Westminster bye-election was held yesterday and a heavy vote was cast. It was the third time within eighteen months that Churchill had run for Parliament, being defeated in every election.

Churchill ran upon an independent, anti-Labor platform. The other two candidates were Scott Duckers, a Liberal, and A. Fenner Brockway, Laborite.

Until the downfall of the Lloyd George government Churchill was regarded as virtually a fixture in the cabinet and Parliament. He has served as lord of the admiralty (head of the navy) and secretary of state for the colonies.

O'Duffy Leads Free State Army

Following Mulcahy's Resignation—Munition Faction Gains More Adherents Among Officials.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Dublin, March 20.—General Owen O'Duffy, former commander of the civilian guard, assumed complete control of the Free State army today, succeeding General Richard Mulcahy, who resigned yesterday. Mulcahy's duties as minister of defence in the Free State cabinet have been taken over by President Cosgrave.

A serious split has developed within the Free State government and leading officials who formerly opposed the "military group" of army officers are now sympathetic towards them.

Debate upon the dissolution in the army continues in the Dail while the government investigates the grievances of the army group headed by Major General Liam Tobin and Col. Dalton.

It is possible that Mulcahy's resignation will lead to an open breach between the supporters and foes of the Anglo-Irish treaty. An early general election is in prospect.

Republicans are becoming more active in some quarters.

Queer Pets of Poets; Rossetti Liked Wombat

One of the most romantic as well as one of the greatest figures of Victorian times was Dante Gabriel Rossetti, for he was in the very front rank both as a painter and a poet. But, like many other men of genius, he had some peculiarities, among them a love of strange pets, which he kept mostly in his big garden behind No. 16 Cheyne Walk.

At one time or another he possessed a wombat, a woodchuck, an armadillo, a raccoon, a kangaroo, a deer, a chameleon, a salamander and even a zebu, the sacred cow of India.

The wombat was probably the favorite and enjoyed most privileges, being accustomed to sleep on the epergne in the middle of the dinner table, quite undisturbed by lights or conversation. On one occasion it took advantage of an absorbing discussion to help itself to expensive cigars. It chewed up a boxful.

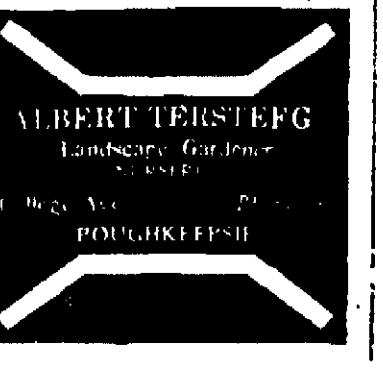

Tennyson wrote several poems on the owl, as other poets do on nightingales and skylarks. One night, sitting at the attic window in his father's country rectory, he heard the cry of a young owl, and imitated it so well that the bird came to him. From that moment it became a household pet. Its fate was a sad one, however, for it was drowned in a well.

The nearest and dearest pet Burns ever possessed was a sheep, which he called Mallie. He wrote two poems to Mallie after her death. The sheep used to follow the poet everywhere, and would run with the speed of a greyhound to meet her master.

Cowper's three horses, Puss, Tiny and Bess, belong to literature, for he tells their story in his inimitable letters. Puss was his companion for eleven years and eleven months. She was in the habit of pulling his hair when she wanted to go for a walk. Tiny was a hard-tempered little beast, responding to caresses with snaps and grunts. Bess was gentle and affectionate. The three enjoyed a nightly romp on the poet's parlor carpet.—London Answers.

Device Aids Musicians

We are told that the human wind power is capable of a continued sound emission over not more than three or four bars of music. Yet many operas have sustained passages of many more bars. In order to aid players of wind instruments in the orchestras or bands to overcome the difficulties incident to playing such passages an inventor has devised what is known as the "aerophor." The device consists of a foot bellows, containing a water chamber and electric light bulb, from which the air, moistened and warmed to the degree of the human breath, is forced through a length of rubber tubing equipped with a stop valve to a mouthpiece fitted into the corner of the mouth. As the soft palate of the player is automatically closed while he plays, he receives the artificial current of air, which circles around in the mouth and out through the lips to the mouthpiece of the instrument. Not only may he sustain the tone of the instrument, but he may perform the most ornate cadenza, while he breathes through his nostrils independently.

ALBERT TERSTEG

MANY ODD SOUNDS IN JUNGLE AT NIGHT.

Weird Noises Seem to Intensify Silence.

Stop awhile and listen to the alliance of the night, doubly intensified by the many strange sounds from the Indian jungle. Have you ever heard a tree chuckle? Neither have I, but I am persuaded that if a tree could chuckle it would make a noise like the weird lizard whose wooden, grating cry punctuates the stillness with the most peculiar effect of laughter, writes Lily Strickland Anderson in World Traveler Magazine. This creature, sometimes attaining a length of five or six feet, often sallies forth in daylight across the green, a living throw-back to prehistoric Iguanodon, Ichthyosaurus or megalosaurus.

One can always hear the dismal rising crescendo of the howls of jackals, complaining eternally to the moon of some forgotten grievance. They break swiftly from cover, singly, or in groups, fitting in front of us like gray shadows, as we catch the green and yellow glare from their wild eyes. Or perhaps it is a little fox that hurries by, and somehow seems a more friendly creature than the cowardly and furtive jackal. I have walked within almost touching distance of these cunning little brown foxes, who, while instinctively on the alert for danger, yet sensing friendliness, remained silent and unafraid as I passed by. It may be a wild bear that blunders headlong through the brush, intent on some predatory, nocturnal errand. Jackal, fox or bear, with the coming of night they all add their notes to the chorus of the awakening jungle.

We are surrounded by the subdued twitterings of night birds, the stealthy rustlings of nocturnal prowlers, large and small, and the many indefinable and uncatalogued sounds that characterize the tropic night. Farther along the way, over a little bridge that spans a stream, now happily alive in the time of rains, and flowing like a streak of liquid silver, we lose ourselves on the winding roads that take us far in the forest.

Now revealed in the full, white light are broken and vine-covered walls that once marked the boundaries of a rajah's domain, and there, in that sequestered spot, where once was a large pool, alluring with lotus bloom, palm shelter, jasmine-scented, we see but desolation and decay. The water has long vanished from the pool; in its place is a wild tangle of dead leaves and brush, and on the crumbling steps that once led down to the water's brim, the deadly cobra coils his sinuous length, or slithers away among the rustling aves of forgotten yesterday, and the bright-eyed lizard darts with ichthyian swiftness in and about his haunts amongst the dead vegetation. All is deserted and lonely in the cold moonlight.

Drug Named After Greek

In classic myth Morpheus was represented as the son of Somnus, the god of sleep. Morpheus himself was the god of dreams. He was supposed to fabricate the dreams that visit sleepers. He was pictured as an old man with wings, and holding a vial or horn from which issued a vapor which produced sleep. The name Morpheus is derived from a Greek word which means to shape or form, and the name was given to the god of dreams because of the shapes or forms which he calls up before the dreamer. The word morphine, the name of a sleep-producing drug, comes from Morpheus.—Kansas City Times

Playing Safe

The visitor to the village was asking many questions of a group of men he had come across standing outside the local house of refreshment.

"And where do you get your water from?" he asked after a time. "What steps do you take to insure that it is quite pure before you drink it?"

"Well, sir," said one of the yokels, first of all, we boil it."

"Very good; very good," broke in the officious stranger.

"And then we filter it."

"Fine, fine," exclaimed the visitor. "And what do you do then?"

"Then," said the yokel, with a grin, "we drink something else."

To Find Pipe Leaks

Leaks in water mains which necessitate the digging of long trenches often in streets where the traffic is heavy, may now be located by the use of a device that has been thoroughly tested by the New York water department. The inventor also claims that the machine will save thousands of gallons of waste water each year through location of the leaks, which often flow for a considerable time before being discovered.

A Distinct Departure In Practice and Performance

The real reason for the remarkable interest aroused by the Chrysler Six is the quick recognition that it is a distinct departure from previous motor car practice and performance.

With its creation there was accomplished an all-important evolution in motor cars no less valuable than the original invention of the automobile. We invite you to study the Chrysler Six at first hand and to ride in it, so that you may acquaint yourself with the new standards established by its performance.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity; says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obligating you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

First Address Of Miss Leigh

etc. This was shown to be equally true in going out of town to make purchases. Usually the added care and more incidentals make the purchase more, not less expensive.

Then Miss Leigh gave some "Don'ts," that she had handed out to her by a group of some fifty salespeople whom she had asked to tell the things they would like to have her say to just such an audience as the one she was addressing. First, don't run your hand, upon the fingers of which you are wearing rings, especially with stones in them, into a silk stocking or silk undergarment. More often than not the setting of the stone catches just one tiny thread which it breaks; a run follows and the article is unfit for sale.

Please don't go to the movie or theater, etc., and then leave an afternoon shopping all to be done in about ten minutes.

When making a C. O. D. purchase, be sure and be at home when it arrives. Miss Leigh explained that in large cities the merchants estimate that it cost forty cents for every C. O. D. delivery, because they have to count on the fact that so large a percentage of delivered articles of that sort will have to be delivered two or three times before the purchaser is found at home. All this has to be taken into account when prices are fixed on goods, and add decidedly to their cost.

After that message, Miss Leigh gave not a little valuable information to the women present as to certain kinds of merchandise the value of which they have a wrong idea of. When in doubt it is well to ask the salesperson as they often can give good advice, but not always. An instance given was that the customer usually in buying glove silk underwear, wants the heavy quality. The speaker showed that weight has nothing to do with the wearing quality of glove silk underwear. But the purchasers thinking that it is what they should buy, the manufacturers have used tin to weight the silk to the desired consistency. This weighting only creates friction and lessens the wearing quality of the fabric. A good saleswoman will tell a purchaser which is the best quality and it will not be the heaviest. Other examples given were the idea of buying face powder by the perfume and fancy box, often done by intelligent women; table linen that is "heavy" with sizing; electrical goods not understood by the purchaser. When in doubt, Miss Leigh advised asking the saleswoman or man, or if they did not know, the buyer or manager. The next best guarantee of an article is one that is nationally advertised or has a nationally known trade mark. Such manufacturers must maintain their reputation by selling such goods of the quality that they advertise and will "make good."

Miss Leigh was asked if there were such things as "Real Bargains." She said there were, especially in wearing apparel. Often a person would buy a suit or dress or coat at the beginning of the season, when the style was new and pay, say, forty or fifty dollars, when toward the end of the season another would buy another suit or dress or coat exactly the same for twenty-five or thirty dollars, because the style was no longer new and the season advanced. The quality and wearing value would be the same but at a much smaller price. Or some reliable shop might send out their buyer to secure some article which they could offer as a real bargain to their customers. By offering to buy in quantity a wise buyer might get a four dollar price on a five dollar article and, for advertising purposes, give the customer the advantage of that deal. But always, Miss Leigh considered that the genuineness of a bargain depended largely upon the character of the store offering the bargain. One could trust a reliable store. The last sort of bargain mentioned was where for one set day, a store marks down some article, say children's good gingham dresses for $1.98 which had cost $3 and would the day after the sale raise the price to $3 again. Those getting the dresses for $1.98 would get a real bargain. In closing Miss Leigh said she had greatly enjoyed talking to her audience of buyers, and they had certainly enjoyed, and doubtless will profit by her talk.

The Federation then held its regular business meeting. Mrs. Drake, the secretary, read the minutes of the last open meeting and also of the last executive meeting at which time the full Federation that The Federation fully support Chief of Police J. Allan Wood in his every endeavor to maintain the highest possible moral standard for our city. Before this motion was put to the meeting attention was called to the need of supporting our chief of police, who has shown how deeply he has the interests of the community at heart ever since holding office, at every point in his work. These present were reminded that it was in great measure due to the vision, foresight and interest of the chief of police that today we have the Y. W. C. A. He had realized the need of just such an organization for the good of our girls in the city—and through them the good of our boys—and had kept on urging the women to take some action until finally the Federation had acted. As a result to date, it was reported that last month there had been an attendance at the Y. W. C. A. of 2,000 girls—of course not all different girls—but the Y. W. C. A. has had that number of girls busy and happy under its roof. Furthermore a woman of The Federation whose business takes her out late at night many times, reported the gratifying fact that the number of girls to be seen on our city streets at night was now almost nominal, and when seen the girls were evidently going about their business. The women were also urged to acquaint themselves with the law enforcement situation as far as the Eighteenth Amendment especially is concerned, right here in Kingston, and to lend the weight of their moral support in that matter. It was still further brought out relative to the Y. W. C. A. that through the membership committee of that organization of which committee Mrs. Wood, the wife of Chief Wood is the chairman, between 1,200 and 1,300 paid in memberships of $1 had been secured. The resolution of confidence in and support of Chief Wood was unanimously and enthusiastically passed. It was further stated that while it was a matter of sincere regret that the Rev. Frank B. Seeley had resigned as a police commissioner, it was at the same time a matter for congratulation to all intelligent and interested people of Kingston to know that Mayor Block had appointed such a capable, worthy and characteristic successor to Mr. Seeley as Commissioner Clarence Rowland.

The next matter to come up for consideration was that of having another lecture course next year. Dr. Day in bringing this matter before the meeting said that there was a two-fold object in having such a course; first, the educational and civic gain to the city offered through such a lecture course; the other the possibility of helping some worthy object or philanthropy through funds secured through the course. After considerable careful discussion, it was voted to have a course of two good lectures next year, keeping the before-mentioned objects in view, and the following committee was named, with power to arrange for such a course—Miss Manning of the Monday Club; Mrs. O'Connor of the Coteries; Mrs. Dickinson of the Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. E. E. Norwood of the Individual Member-ship; Mrs. Drake of Sorosis; Miss Hull of the Olympian Club; Mrs. Hobson of the Lowell Club; Miss Van Hoerensberg of the Athlathalon Club; Mrs. Hendricks of the Kingston W. C. T. U.; Miss Marjorie Richards of the Phi Gamma Psi Club; Miss Mauterstock of the School Women's Club.

One new woman's organization was voted into membership in The Federation, the Kingston W. C. T. U., having a membership of 75 which will be a very real acquisition to the Federation. Additional members were also admitted as follows: Miss Haldane and Miss Katharine Millard. Attention was called to the desirability of securing legislation to save the Adirondack Parkway from the defacement of sign-board advertising and the Federation signed an appeal to the state assemblyman and senator asking them to vote in favor of the bill restricting such advertising. Each affiliated club was asked to take similar action, and announcement was made that on Tuesday afternoon, April 8, Mrs. Lawton of the State Federation would, through the Ulster Garden Club, speak at 3 o'clock—probably at St. John's Parish House—on the subject of the "Elimination of the Sign-board," to which meeting the Federation members were invited.

A request was received from Mrs. Alden of the Sunshine Society which is doing so much for blind children, asking for contributions from the various Federations of a sum sufficient to purchase rattles—at ten cents each—for their blind babies. Many contributions were made at the meeting and the clubs will doubtless secure additional contributions when next they meet.

Mrs. Hyman Roosa, treasurer of the State Federation called attention to the magazine, "New York State Club News," costing one dollar. The funds derived from the sale of this book, will go toward providing a much needed office, paid secretary and office assistant for the State Federation which now includes 650 clubs.

Following the report, earlier in the meeting of the treasurer, Miss Lucy Healy, Dr. Day announced that with the sale of additional tickets for the Whiting Williams lecture to be given at the high school next Wednesday evening—the last of this year's course—there would be a small sum at least to be donated to the Kingston City Library, and urged as great a sale as possible both because of the excellence of the lecturer and the cause, the Kingston City Library. Members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs have been asked to patronize this lecture which is being supported so generously by their brother organizations in other cities. The tickets are one dollar and may be secured of Federation members or at the high school at the time of the lecture.

Whiting Williams, sociologist, writer, a student of the laborer has but recently returned from France, Germany, Italy, where during the past summer he worked as a minor with the German coal diggers in the Ruhr Basin. He will lecture on "Mainsprings of Men; What My Pick Turned Up About People."

The next open meeting of The Federation will be held in May and will be the annual meeting. The public health committee will be the hostesses.

Common Sense

"Common sense, in a rough, dogged way, is technically sounder than the special schools of philosophy, each of which squints and overlooks half the fact and half the difficulties in its eagerness to find in some detail the key to the whole."—George Santayana.

When a Worm Turns

If the worm would always turn when it ought, a fishworm wouldn't cross three feet of cement sidewalk when the turf is three inches away.

Knows Where to Find His First Dime.

A.E. HUMPHREYS

Out in the mountain village of Sissonville, West Virginia, on the crest of a hill known as Mount Zion, there is a church that was erected 54 years ago. In the cornerstone there is a dime, the first money ever earned by Colonel Albert E. Humphreys, now one of the wealthiest oil operators in America. He put it in when the church was dedicated. Now he's going to get it back by tearing down Mount Zion Church, but in return he will replace it with one of the finest churches in West Virginia.

Ladies Always First

Few animals are more interesting to study in their wild state than the elephant. One generally pictures a herd of these great pachyderms majestically led by some splendid old bull with fine long tusks and all the attributes of the male, but in reality the leader is always a cow, and she it is who directs the family affairs to her own liking. She also gives the alarm for the herd to move when danger threatens, the old tusker following meekly in the rear.

A Long Memory

A stranger spoke to Jim Jones in the bar of the Goose and Gander. "Seventeen years ago," said the stranger, "I landed in this town, and you told me that if ever I was in need you would willingly lend me a pound." Visions of a substantial reward for his former kindness floated before the eyes of Jim Jones. "Well," he said, shaking with excitement and expectation. "Are you still game?" asked the stranger.—Yorkshire Post.

Gum Sticker Substitute

As a substitute for gum stickers, a vacuum clip has been made that provides a neat and clean way of holding posters, announcements, advertisements and price tags on store windows or show cases. By moistening the face of the rubber cup and pressing it firmly against glass or any smooth, nonporous substance, it will cling so tightly that it will support a weight of ten pounds. Inserting the finger nail under the cup releases it.

About Love

Barret Wendell, the brilliant critic, was talking about love.

"Good writers," he said, "never treat love as an immortal and divine thing. Poor writers always do so."

"Poor writers go on about love ridiculously. They are like young Jack Hoskins."

"I like you, Mr. Hoskins," a pretty girl said to young Jack, "but I like Mr. Hemingway, too. Mr. Hemingway," she added, with a simper, "says he thinks about me 895 days in the year."

"Huh! He wants one day off every four years, does he?" said Jack Hoskins. "Surely, Miss. Fetherstonhaugh—Ethel—surely you don't compare a lukewarm attachment like that to a burning passion such as mine."

Has Purest Gold Coin

The three most common silver standards are 835, 900 and 925, the latter called sterling silver. Our country, France, Germany, Japan, Russia, Sweden and others, use the 900-parts-gold-and-100-parts-copper purity; while England, India, Portugal, Brazil, Turkey and others issue their gold coin upon the 22-carat basis (916 2/3 fine). Probably the purest coin of modern times is the Austrian gold ducat which assays 986 fine. It is generally accepted that a fineness of from 835 to 925 is best for coinage purposes. With pure copper as alloying element coins of these purities hold the color well and resist abrasion sufficiently to make it a most satisfactory circulating medium.

Regardless of the dictates of fashion concerning bobbed heads for women it is apparent that many hairdressers agree with the flappers that the "bob" is here to stay, says the New York Sun and Globe.

This is particularly evident in some of the "almost a city in itself" sections uptown, for there the barber shops formerly the impregnable retreats of men, have brazenly deserted to the women. Signs in their windows announce prices for all kinds of "bobs" and strong pleas are made for the patronage of the fair sex. In fact, so much does one barber consider that his trade lies with the women that he has already dismissed the pretty blonde manicurist who formerly was an inducement to bring in male customers.

THE CITIZEN'S DUTY

By JOHN T. ADAMS,

Chairman of the Republican National Committee

America's citizens are responsible for the character of their government—whether it be federal, state or local. Our public officials are nominated and elected by the people.

It should be kept in mind that the work of a citizen is not all done on election day. It begins in the party primaries and continues through the coming presidential election. It is now well under way. In many states the dates of primaries and conventions for selection of candidates have been set. It is the duty of every citizen who wishes good government to belong to a party and to participate in his party primaries. It is his duty to see that the candidates nominated are party principles and who are pledged to support its policies and cooperate with its organization. Only in this manner can we have responsible party government, which is the most successful form of representative government yet devised.

During the last few years there has been a great deal of propaganda decrying party activity. There has been an attempt to make a virtue of social non-partisanship. Instead of non-partisanship being a virtue it is a menace. It tends to break down responsible representative government. The need of the hour is not for less partisanship but for more of it.

The underlying cause of most political evils today is the indifference of our citizens to their right of suffrage. Even the best of us are negligent. The majority of the legal voters are taking no part in either their party primaries or the general elections. Less than half the citizens of the United States voted in the presidential election of 1920. The percentage taking part in the congressional elections of 1922 was even less. Such conditions make possible a government by the minority.

Representative government is not automatic. It is not self-supporting. It draws not only its authority from the people, but it draws its strength and vitality from them. Unless they participate in public affairs in an active and intelligent manner their government must of necessity cease to be representative. This participation must begin with party primaries and conventions. It must continue throughout the campaign. It must be in evidence on election day. This is both the duty and privilege of every American citizen.

Dr. Flick Talks To Schoolwomen

About forty members of the Kingston Chapter of the School Women's Club of the Hudson Valley gathered for an informal St. Patrick's Day supper Tuesday evening at the "Advance" on Wall street. School No. 7 had charge of the artistic table decorations which were appropriate for the occasion.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Alexander C. Flick, state historian of the University of the State of New York, until recently head of the history department of Syracuse university. Dr. Flick gave a most interesting and inspiring address on "American character, its strength and weakness" and discussed some serious problems confronting the nation which educators must solve.

During his sojourn in the city Dr. Flick was entertained at the home of the club's president, Miss Mauterstock, who was formerly a student in the history department at Syracuse University.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 20.—Mr. and Mrs. John Groves and daughter, Dorotha, have moved into their new home on Hasbrouck street.

Mrs. Ira Bush of Greenkill avenue, Kingston, spent Wednesday with Mrs. James R. Rodman on Hasbrouck street.

The shoulders of the state road in Port Ewen are in bad condition with holes and ruts. A few loads of crushed stone would help along a whole lot.

Mrs. Donald Decker is very sick at her home on Broadway.

James R. Rodman of Eureka, and uncle of Postmaster James R. Rodman, who was recently operated upon at Kemble's Sanitarium, is very much improved. Mr. Rodman is a frequent visitor at Port Ewen and has won many friends here, who will be glad to hear of his wonderful recovery, for a man of his years.

Official board meetings at 8:30 this evening at the close of the prayer meeting in the chapel of the Methodist Church. A full attendance of the board is requested.

Tuesday evening the Missionary Study Class of the Epworth League completed a very helpful and interesting course of missionary study. The members had been lined up in a contest under the leadership of William Lapine for the Reds and Robert Torrens, Jr., for the Blues. The Blues won as had been anticipated. So in connection with the last study a banquet was given by the losing side to the entire league chapter. Forty-one were present. An excellent repast, consisting of roast beef, mashed potatoes, peas, pickles, cocoa, ice cream and cake was served. Little favors of red and blue filled with candy were placed at each plate. Before the young people departed an hour or more was spent in playing games. Everyone had a royal good time.

George N. Rodman of Springfield Gardens, L. I., was a recent guest of Postmaster James R. Rodman on Hasbrouck street. Mr. Rodman had not seen his uncle in 35 years.

Japanese Emperor Reported Dying.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN.

Apparently to prepare the Japanese people for the end, the physicians of the Emperor of Japan have issued an official statement that his mental faculties are gradually weakening and that hope for his recovery is slight. The Emperor, now in his 46th year, has been ailing mentally since he ascended the throne in 1915. His son, Prince Regent Hirohito, rules in his stead.

On Monday evening the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George DeWitt of Ellenville was the scene of an enjoyable birthday party, the occasion being the birthday of Miss Florence Beach of Middletown, and their son, Elbridge. There was singing and dancing, and a sumptuous supper served at 8 o'clock. The table was beautifully decorated with green. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. E. DeWitt, Miss Florence Beach, Mrs. Frank Broedel and son Frank, of Kingston, Judson King, Clarence DeWitt of Hillburn, John Van Ness, Luther Davis and many others. Atharhacton Club.

Following the open meeting of The Federation of Women's Clubs on Wednesday afternoon, the Atharhacton Club met at the home of Miss Nelson on Main street. Mrs. E. N. Palen had the paper for the day on "Temperament." While the paper was of necessity, more or less technical as being a psychological subject to a marked degree, it proved so interesting that there was an animated discussion following it. The club received and accepted an invitation from the Monday Club to attend the meeting of the Monday Club next Monday evening at Wiltwyck Inn Hall, when Dr. Thayer of Nanpoch will speak on "The Criminal as One of the Mental Defectives." Next Wednesday the Atharhacton Club will meet with Miss Van Keuren, who will have the paper for the day on "Types of Imagination."

ATHLETIC STADIUM IN EXTINGUISHED CRATER

Island of Oahu Once Place of Human Sacrifice.

Honolulu.—Punchbowl, the large extinct crater of one of the volcanoes that formed the island of Oahu and which once was used as a hill of sacrifice by the Hawaiian people, will become one of the largest athletic stadiums in the world if the plans of Maj. William Hoopal, athletic officer of the Hawaiian national guard, are consummated.

The stadium would be almost in the center of the city and would have a seating capacity of 95,000 persons, as large as the present population of the city. Ison laborers have started clearing kawe and other brush from the sides of the crater and inside the bowl. Improvements also have been started to the one road leading to the top of the crater and efforts will be made to obtain municipal co-operation for the construction of another road.

Punchbowl Now Rifle Range.

Punchbowl, which towers 500 feet above sea level, forms a perfect amphitheater, and, in the opinion of Major Hoopal, could be transformed into a modern stadium at a small cost. It is now owned by the government and is used as a rifle range for the national guard of Hawaii. Its peak is the scene of the annual Easter sunrise service, which is held before a giant cross.

The last human sacrifice believed to have taken place on Punchbowl is shrouded in mystery, but tradition says that King Kamehameha IV, a heavy drinker, struck his only child during a drinking bout. The child received injuries which caused its death. Kamehameha planned an execution of his crime. A decree was issued ordering all inhabitants of Honolulu to remain inside their houses that night.

Fire Burns on Sacrificial Rock.

What transpired is unknown, but tradition contends that a fire burned that night on a high rock where the sacrificial pit was situated. A heavy smoke fell and waivered around it, according to the stories of persons who disobeyed the king's order and watched the fire from afar. An old Hawaiian, questioned regarding this incident, said that nobody was known to have been missing in Honolulu after this evening, but that any drunken sailor might have disappeared easily in the darkness and that such a man never would be missed. In 1899 a chief who was captured as an enemy of Kamehameha the Great was known to have been burned at the stake on Punchbowl.

The crater rim measures 1,800 feet across from east to west and 1,700 feet across from north to south. The slope from the rim to the bottom of the crater is estimated at approximately 15 degrees. The floor of the bowl is about 200 feet below the rim.

Three Drown in Heroic Effort to Save Others

Amarillo, Tex.—Stories of heroic efforts of three men, who drowned in a lake 80 miles southwest of here recently, to save another were told by witnesses. The men, members of a hunting party, were able to remain above the icy water for an hour.

J. W. Mayhew, fifty-three, of Claude, Tex., walked out about five hundred yards on the ice-covered lake, then suddenly broke through. Glen Randall, twenty-six, Amarillo, went to his assistance, but the ice gave way under him. S. W. Hammer, Santa Fe railroad switchman, also hurried out. He, too, broke through the ice.

Then for an hour a score of spectators watched the men in 12 or 15 feet of water help each other on to the edge of the ice coat, only to see the ice give way under their weight. Rescuers from the shore worked feverishly cutting the ice to reach the men with boats, but saw them drown before one-quarter the distance had been covered.

Firemen Start Fires to Test Their Efficiency

New York.—Three members of the Nyack volunteer fire department—Fred Metelsky, Edgar Wanamaker and Frank Kirk—were indicted on a charge of arson in the second degree by the Rockland county jury at Nyack recently. County authorities say that within the last month they set fire to the Tivoli boathouse, the Lydcker barn and the Gurney carpenter shop in Nyack, all of which were partly burned.

Metelsky pleaded guilty and said that he and other men had become bored by sitting around the firehouse without any action and had decided to fire the places to test the efficiency of their apparatus and personnel. Wanamaker and Kirk pleaded not guilty. Metelsky was remanded for sentence.

Optometrists Unable to Discover Perfect Eyes

Emporia, Kan.—"One hundred dollars for a pair of perfect eyes," read an offer made by the Kansas Association of Optometrists, which closed its convention in Emporia recently, and when the "spec" doctors opened a clinic at their headquarters many Emporians, proud of their eyesight, applied for examination. They were informed that no one had perfect eyesight and the prize would not be given.

Eyes were like leaves, explained the optometrist in charge; no two were alike, and none was perfect. The doctors still have their prize money and will keep it forever unless they change the rules of the contest.

There Is Need for Expansion of Sheep Industry in United States

Rambouillet Lamb, Six Weeks Old, at the United States Experiment Station, Dubois, Idaho.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is need for a considerable expansion of the sheep industry in the United States and the future holds promise of much greater stability for it than it has enjoyed in the past, say workers of the Department of Agriculture. They believe the expansion of the future will be characterized by less violent fluctuations than have been common heretofore because there is relatively little unoccupied land to which the industry can turn and the pioneer phase of mutton and wool production is rapidly passing.

Nevertheless it is pointed out that the sheepman in this country will always have to meet severe foreign competition. He must not only compete with wool growers in other countries, but with producers of other live stock, for land, labor and machinery of production. There is also the problem of getting an adequate place for lamb and mutton in the diet of the country.

Moreover the sheepman is warned that the recurring cycles of prosperity or depression that have been the bane of the sheep industry in the past cannot be altogether eliminated. When prices for mutton and wool are low producers necessarily reduce their flocks. This action increases the number of sheep marketed and causes additional price depression. Later on the supply of wool and mutton gets low so that prices rise again. When this takes place producers once more enlarge their flocks until the demand is overshot again and the cycle is repeated. The sheep industry reached a low point during the recent period of financial depression. It is now building up, but the department's workers do not expect any early saturation of the home demand because the market for mutton is continuing strong and the country normally has to import about half its wool supply.

Scientific Knowledge Essential.

Many eastern and midwestern farmers, it is said, can now more readily meet the competition of the west range operators. The eastern men have good nearby markets and in many cases can raise sheep at a lower cost than is possible under some western range conditions. Rapid increase in the East seems, however, to be limited by lack of knowledge concerning the care of sheep and also by the attractions of other branches of farming. In the West expansion is expected to be on the basis of higher operating costs than formerly, but sheepmen are meeting this condition by eliminating wasteful methods and following scientific principles in sheep raising. One handicap is the difficulty of securing adequate range. Many operators using the public domain are faced with uncertainty as to how much longer these lands will be available to them.

Important changes have taken place in the sheep industry in the last twenty years. Formerly sheep in the United States were raised almost exclusively for wool. Recently the production of mutton and lamb has assumed a dominating place in the industry. In many western range outfits lambs furnish approximately 55 per cent of the revenue. But one of the greatest problems in marketing is that of avoiding congestion during the three-months' period from August 15 to November 15, and the department's specialists urge sheepmen throughout the country to give this matter their close attention.

Lamb receipts at leading markets in this three-months' period are frequently much greater than can be readily absorbed. Such gluts always bring prices down. Autumn congestion is aggravated by the practice of marketing lambs of inferior quality at this time. These inferior native lambs have a depressing influence on the market. Besides hurting the sale of good lambs, they generally fetch prices below production costs. Sheepmen who can get their lambs to market earlier are advised to do so; but if the lambs are not suitable for slaughter before August they should be held a few weeks or shipped to feed lots.

Another problem which the sheepmen are faced with is that of winning a stable market for lamb and mutton. Consumption of lamb and mutton in this country varies widely from year to year. From 1907 to 1922 per capita consumption ranged from 4.7 pounds in 1917 to 8.2 pounds in 1922, a variation of more than 74 per cent. The importance of this variation is apparent when the fact is taken into account that there is practically no foreign trade in lamb and mutton. More lamb and mutton is eaten in the Northeast and far western sections than elsewhere. Its consumption is lowest in the South Atlantic, South Central and North Central states.

Mutton Consumption Increases.

Improved methods of slaughter and the development of artificial refrigeration and refrigerated transportation have greatly increased the consumption of mutton in the United States in the last thirty years. It is, however, considerably lower than in many other countries. Average annual per capita consumption of lamb and mutton for the ten-year period 1912-1921 in the United States was 6.2 pounds. This compares with a per capita consumption of 9 pounds in Canada in 1910; 20.7 pounds in the United Kingdom from 1895 to 1908; 9 pounds in France in 1904; and in Germany of only 2.2 pounds a year for 1904-1913.

In these periods the consumption of lamb and mutton in these countries constituted the following percentages of the total meat consumption: 4.85 per cent in the United States; 5.57 per cent for Canada; 22.25 per cent for the United Kingdom; 11.25 per cent for France; 1.01 per cent for Germany.

Thus It is evident that the problem of increasing consumption in this country is an important one. Largely because of the dual character of the sheep industry, which requires a steady market for both meats and wool, the sheepman's marketing problems are more difficult than those of either the cattle or the hog producer. People in this country prefer strictly fresh, rather than frozen, lamb and mutton. But mutton cannot be stored satisfactorily without freezing for more than a short time. It is therefore difficult to move sheep from distant points of production to consuming centers without deterioration. There is frequently heavy loss through shrinkage and other causes resulting from long hauls.

Good Wool Demand Apparent.

Wool marketing is much easier. Though the United States is the third country in wool production and has produced an average of 300,000,000 pounds a year for the last thirty-five years, it has never met the home demand. Imports for some years prior to the war averaged 200,000,000 pounds. They reached a peak at 453,727,000 pounds in 1918. Probably a normal annual amount which must be imported is around 300,000,000 pounds. American sheepmen have therefore no need to be afraid of overshooting the home demand for wool. Since 1921 wool prices have more than doubled. The problem of selling wool is not to create a market but to take the best advantage of the one that exists.

This has been attempted in the last few years by considerable extension of co-operative marketing. Great quantities of wool are now assembled annually by wool pools and held at central points for inspection by wool buyers. Co-operation, however, has seen its greatest development in the farm stock regions. On the range, co-operative marketing is comparatively new, and affects only a small portion of the wool sold by large ranching outfits. It has, however, achieved some success. Results indicate that co-operative selling stimulates competition among buyers, facilitates businesslike transactions, and tends to check overloading of markets.

The ratio of the number of sheep to population in the United States has declined since 1881. From 1889 to 1903 there were about 5 sheep for every 8 people. Ten years later there were only 4. From 1910 to 1923 there were only 2.3 sheep for every 8 people, or about 1.3 of a sheep per person. Nevertheless the total production of wool has remained practically constant owing to increase in the weight of the fleeces. Per capita consumption of wool has been maintained by great increases in imports.

Sudan Grass Is Annual Not Surviving Winter

Sudan grass is an annual and as such does not live over winter. If not pastured too severely there will be a late season growth, but it must be remembered that such a growth comes at a time when climatic conditions are likely to be unfavorable and formation of prussic acid may result.

Friday night the local high school quintet plays Ossining at the Newburgh armory. This game will be the first of two inter-sectional games. The second is between Tuxedo High and Mt. Vernon. Both games promise to be good and lively.

The locals practiced twice this week under Coach Anderson's direction. All the varsity men are in fine shape and unless they go stale today Coach Anderson will put the best team Kingston High has had this year and probably the best High team K. H. S. ever had on the floor.

Every member of the team knows what he is playing for and will put his best into the game. Coach Anderson will take all the varsity men with him.

A victory over Ossining means a play off with the winners of the Tuxedo-Mt. Vernon game. A victory in the play off means a chance at the state championship. A large crowd will accompany the team to Newburgh Friday night.

Important Met. Game Sunday

If Brooklyn Beats Trenton, Brooklyn Will Capture Honors, Otherwise a Tie Between Brooklyn and Paterson Will Result—Borgman May Be Dethroned From Scoring Honors For Season by Brennan.

The crucial game between Paterson and Brooklyn for the leadership of the second half of the Metropolitan Basketball League was decided in the New Jersey armory last Saturday night, and was witnessed by the greatest attendance that has ever been attracted to a league game in the three years of the Metro existence. After a battle that will last forever in the minds of the onlookers who were able to jam their way into the capacious drill shed, Brooklyn triumphed in the last few minutes by the scant margin of 43-40.

As a result of this victory, Paterson was shut out of any possibility of taking the lead, and now the chief concern and hope of the Jerseyites is to have the husky Trenton Tigers knock off Brooklyn on next Sunday when the two teams meet in the final game at Prospect Hall. If this can be done, Paterson and Brooklyn will again be tied up.

That the task of the Trenton club is no mean one can easily be seen from the records of this season's play. But three teams have been successful in defeating Brooklyn on its own runway, Paterson, Kingston and Trenton. This is a record that can well be owned up with considerable pride, when the class of the teams forming the Metro circuit is taken into consideration.

Brooklyn with an opportunity of winning both halves of the season, a feat which has been accomplished but once before in the history of big league basketball, is out to make its claim to the title beyond question by taking Trenton into camp quite handily, while the South Jerseyites feel that a victory at the windup of the season over the cocky Brooklyn outfit will more than repay them for disappointments suffered during the past year, so all in all the impending contest promises to be a thriller.

Borgman of Paterson, although he is still in first place in point scoring honors for the second half, has a chance of being ousted by Brennan of Brooklyn who is but thirteen points behind in second place, with one more game to go. Borgman is finished so that there is no chance of his point scores being added to, while Brennan has been traveling at a fast pace of late, so for the first time in the Metropolitan history, diminutive Benny may be compelled to lower his colors.

In the preliminary struggle P. Bruck led the St. Peter's squad with 17 points, 8 fields and a foul. Joyce did the best work for the St. Mary's juniors, scoring 6 points. The St. Peter's quintet got an early start and was never headed. At half time St. Peter's led 21 to 7. The score:

The Catskill team started early in the struggle to score and at half time led by a one point margin, score 9 to 8. Up until the final minutes of deciding the struggle the game was in doubt, the lead changing hands several times. A concentrated effort by the home club in the closing seconds, piled up the markers.
